DISPOSAL OF LUMINA LIGHTS

LUMINA: No longer viable.

No parts available

Unreliable

Expensive to run

Poor light quality

SELLING:

Richard instructed to dispose of lights – taking up too much room in shed. Thought maybe $50/$100 per light.

Set up a display of working light in his Garage and approached different electrical outlets i.e. KDEC, EDC, KEENY ELECTRICS etc but no interest at any price. Complaints were – technology too old, too expensive to run. Not interested even if free.

Even approached Thurgoona Mens Shed who had just erected an enormous new shed and needed lights, but after looking at the specifications they said they were not interested.

Even Recycle Centre not interested, the only other alternative was landfill.

In the finish Christian Electrics took them, FOC.

BAS:

Where did you get value?

Who did you approach to get value?

Were the people who gave value aware of the exact specifications?
